ELECTRIC ENGINEERS SAY CAN'T BE DONE

ADVISE ELECTRIC COMPANY NOT TO OPERATE 24 HOURS.

Still Working on Plan to Give 24 Hour Service.

Ann Arbor, Michigan, Mar. 6, 1922.
O. P. Schumann, Editor,
Crawford Avalanche,
Grayling, Michigan.

Dear Sir:
The communication of Mr. J. H. Wingard and your editorial in the issue of your paper of February 23rd, has been brought to our attention.

We have been consulting engineers for the Grayling Electric company for the past four years, and are probably in a measure responsible for not having 24 hour service at Grayling. The company has recognized the desirability of giving 24 hour service and instructed us to find if possible a feasible plan.

The present hydro-electric plant is on a comparatively small stream where the fall is 12 to 14 feet. The present commercial lighting is heavy from dusk until about 11 p. m. with a light load prevailing until daylight, when the commercial load becomes practically nothing. With a hydro-electric plant, as the load on the machinery becomes less than half the capacity of the machines the operation becomes very inefficient. For example at one-quarter to one-third load on the plant nearly twice as much of the water passing through the turbines is wasted than is converted into electrical energy. Under these conditions if 24 hour service be given it would result in using fully one-half as much water in the day period as is now used at night, in carrying the day loads that might result from lighting and the intermittent uses of power such as for electric irons, washing machines, photographic studios, motors used in grocery stores, meat markets, printing shops and the like. This additional use of water of the river would make it impossible to carry the night loads during the winter months, where the storage in the pond during the day is depended upon to make available sufficient water to carry the night load. For this reason we have advised the Grayling Electric company not to undertake 24 hours service with the present hydro-electric plant.

A year or so ago we investigated the river in the neighborhood of Grayling to ascertain if another water power site could be found, but we were unable to locate such a site within reaching distance of Grayling.

An auxiliary steam plant would furnish the service but until there is at least a prospect of a steady electrical power demand sufficient to pay the added expense of fuel, wages and the use of the plant, we cannot advise the company to build such a plant.

There are a number of communities of the size of Grayling enjoying the 24 hour electrical service but in no case do we know of one with an independent plant where the revenues from the electrical sales alone are paying the costs. The municipal plants in such communities are raising about half the costs through customers' rates and half by taxation.

We are still working for a plan to furnish 24 hours electrical service without unreasonable increase in rates and hope to find a means through changing conditions that will warrant it in the near future.

Very truly yours,
Holland, Ackerman & Holland,
By Ray K. Holland.

TWO ROADS INSTEAD OF ONE.

In November we published in the Avalanche an account of a proposed change of the trunk line highway M 18 to go along the track from Frederic to Waters instead of thru the farming district of Maple Forest as now surveyed. This change of routes was called to the attention of the Board of Trade by Melvin A. Bates and E. S. Chalker who admittedly heard of the proposed change. The Board of Trade passed a resolution against the change, and appointed a committee to take the matter up with the district engineer at the joint meeting of the road commissioners of Crawford and Otsego Counties and to take it up with Mr. Rogers, the state highway commissioner, if necessary. Crawford County road commissioners applied for federal aid on the route as now designated, and Otsego County commissioners applied for federal aid along the track.

Mr. Chalker while at the convention of State Farm Bureaus at Lansing, as representative of Crawford County farm bureau, with Mr. Bailey, County Agricultural Agent, took the matter up with Mr. Rogers and he gave Mr. Chalker a letter stating that he realized the situation and was willing to build a 9 foot road on trunk line M 18 as now designated, if Crawford County would apply for federal aid on auxiliary road along the Michigan Central track between Frederic and Waters to be built as money was available, there being no definite time set as to when same was to be finished. At a meeting of the committees with members of the County Road Commissioners, it was decided that while Mr. Bates and Mr. Scott were in Lansing, at the meeting of State Board of Supervisors, to take same up with Mr. Rogers and see if they could not have a definite time set as to when the nine foot road would be completed.

Mr. Hanna, chairman of the road commissioners interviewed the assistant highway commissioner while he was in Lansing and stated the matter to him and received the same assurance as was given to Mr. Chalker.

Mr. Bates, O. B. Scott, O. F. Barnes and John Niederer, acting as a committee interviewed Mr. Rogers and secured the promise of the finishing of the 1-2 of a mile between the two gravel roads thus making same complete to Ben Sherman's corner this year, and the completing of same in 1923.

Now Crawford county is very fortunate in securing the two roads so close to one another, at a cost of 7-12 per cent to the County for building, and 15 per cent for maintaining. It will not cost the county over three thousand dollars more for the two roads than if they had only received one as originally planned. Saving of cost and maintaining in the 9 foot road over the 16 foot on the longer route the County will have the roads for almost the cost of one.

We understand that about $50,000.00 in the County Road fund now and about $20,000.00 in equipment, making about $70,000.00 in money and equipment on hand. We have no interest on bonds, as Otsego and Roscommon counties, to pay Crawford County is in fine financial condition compared with the most of our neighboring counties. Mr. Bates represented both the Board of Supervisors and Board of Trade. Mr. Chalker was acting as representative of the County Farm Bureau; Mr. Hanna and Mr. Niederer the County Road Commission, and we appreciate the able manner in which this matter has been handled, also the successful conclusion of same.

KELLY GREENS 39, GRAYLING IND. 27

FOR RETURN GAME GAYLORD HIRES WELL KNOWN DETROITERS.

Was Fine Exhibition of Basket Ball. Efforts to "Get" Some of Grayling Players Reported.

The Grayling Independents played the Kelly Greens of Detroit at the Gaylord auditorium Monday night, and held this professional quintet to a score of 39 to 27. At the close of the first half the score was 21 to 10 in favor of the Kelly Greens; in the second half they made but one more point than Grayling.

It was a wonderful showing Grayling made against the great team, and, as one of the Detroit players stated, they gave them the hardest battle they had had this season. On the Detroit line-up were the well-known stars "Tillie" Voss, "Martie" Kavanaugh and Joe Dermody. Voss is recognized as the greatest basket ball center in America. He played star center for the Detroit Rayls for many years, and helped to keep his team the world champions for many seasons. Kavanaugh, an ex-Detroit tiger player, is known as one of the greatest basket ball athletes in America. Dermody is also of the former Detroit Rayls team, but now with the Kelly Greens.

Last week the Grayling Independents played the Gaylord All City team in Grayling and defeated them by a score of 46 to 11. This, of course, was humiliating to the Gaylord fans and it appears that the managers set out to get Grayling's scalp at the return game. It was a beautiful compliment that they paid our boys when they hired the best team in Michigan, if not in America, to come to Grayling and do the job for them. It cost them dearly in a financial way and we fail to understand how it may profit them otherwise. Their victory is in no sense a victory for Grayling. The one big thing they did was to give the patrons the pleasure of seeing the greatest game of basket ball ever played in Northern Michigan.

It was a wonderful game, to see the Grayling quintet buck up against these famous stars and the former certainly gave a remarkable account of themselves.

Unfortunately there were several features that marred the pleasure of the game from the point of sportsmanship. It is rumored that an offer of $50.00 had been made to any member of the Gaylord contingent who would knock out Morrow, one of Grayling's guards, and it appears that several attempts were made to do so. Some of our well known business men, whose integrity cannot be impeached, claim that they saw one of the Detroit players deliberately strike Mr. Morrow in the stomach on several occasions; also Mr. Morrow says he was struck back of one of his ears by one of the players with his fist. Others of our citizens saw one of the Detroiters deliberately strike Colburn Charlottour, one of the Grayling players in the stomach with his elbow, knocking him out and disabling him. For the remainder of the game, Alce Clarence Johnson was struck on the jaw by one of the Detroit players which did not knock him out but did stagger him. The referee Paul Dye of Traverse City seemed unable to see these personal fouls. If this is the kind of sportsmanship that is wanted in our neighboring city, then we feel that Grayling may well withdraw from further schedules to be played there, and do so with dignity and honor. We are not objecting to the game and the star players that were placed up against Grayling but we do resent the dirty tactics that are reported to have been used. There are a lot of good people in Grayling who would not sanction such sportsmanship and we doubt if they will approve the tactics that were used in the game Monday night.

The Grayling players are all home men and have had a wonderfully successful season, winning all except two games, and much stronger teams than before they have gone down. They have been a credit to their home people, but nobody here wants them to play in any city where they cannot be given the usual sportsmanlike treatment. The men on our team are not complaining but the citizens here are. It is just such affairs as these that make the relationship between these two cities more or less strained. It should not be that way. It is time that the old spirit of "Win or run, no matter what the cost," should be wiped out. In order to be good sports we must be good losers and good winners, but do so fairly. If it cannot be that way between Grayling and Gaylord, it will be better that athletics be refrained from. It is unfortunate that sometimes a few people are able to establish the standard of principle for whole communities.

While a few Grayling men were able to win a few money bets from Grayling fellows, they were selling out the principles of their fellow townspeople and the price wasn't worth it. Shakespeare says: "He who steals my purse steals trash, but he who robs me of my good name, takes that which will not enrich himself but makes me poor indeed." Grayling has been robbed of its good name, and it has been done by some of their own people. Is it worth it? We cannot help but believe that there is much humility among the citizens of that fair town who know the truth about the game Monday night.

SCHOOL HEALTH REPORTS.

Mrs. Milnes' room, grades 5 A and 6 B has been examined, with the result that out of 41 enrolled, there are twenty-eight with defects.

- 6 with enlarged tonsils and probably nasal obstruction.
- 6 with defective vision.
- 7 with teeth needing attention.
- 1 with defective teeth, tonsils and eyes.
- 5 with defective teeth and tonsils.
- 1 with mouth breather, probably nasal obstruction.
- 2 with defective teeth and vision.
- Total 28.

Many of these children in this room especially the 5 A division are from one to three years retarded. This division should have an average of 10-12 years, while most of the students are above that. Parents please look into this, and find out the reason for so many poor report cards. If you receive a slip of paper stating a defect, it may be something easily corrected and may cause serious difficulty later if not attended to.

Other grades will be reported later.

Cows That Make the Income Climb.
(I have selected the statements below, without change, from a bulletin by my friend Professor J. C. McDowell, of the Dairy Division of the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Last summer, while visiting the Eastern Pan Handle Cow-Testing Association in West Virginia, I saw a fine young herd of registered dairy cattle. As I stepped into the clean, well-lighted, well-built dairy barn the owner said to me: "It's between me, these cows, and the sheriff. Because, my capital is limited, my cows have got to pay; if they don't the sheriff will sell me out. My cows must pay and to make sure they will I must know their individual records. That's why I belong to the cow-testing association."

That man's cows are paying because he knows their records and tests according to production. Hundreds of millions of dollars' worth of feed are consumed annually by our dairy cows. The net income is large or small, according to the way that feed is used. When production is increased through feeding and breeding, the income rapidly expands, and a few real scrubs on my dairy farm will deflate the net income.

In this country 5,000,000 farmers furnish feed and care for 23,000,000 dairy cows. Because of low-producing dairy cows, a large part of that feed is wasted. Weighing out expensive feeds to a low-producing cow is like shoveling costly coal into the fire box of a leaky boiler; and the farmer who keeps such cows is seldom bothered with an income tax.

The dairy cow transforms raw materials—straw, hay, and concentrates, into the finished products, milk, butter, and cream. That way she furnishes a market for our feeds. Whether that market will be good or bad depends in part upon the way the cow is fed and in part upon the cow.

Selling Feeds to the Cow.

There is no better way to market the feeds grown on the farm than to feed them to a high-producing herd of dairy cows. The cow takes corn, silage, grain, and clover hay, and converts them into a product for which there always is a ready sale. It is much easier to send the butterfat to the creamery than to haul the hay to town. Yes; and in the long run it is generally much more profitable, because it keeps the soil fertility at home. Instead of selling hay and grain that may go to enrich the soil in some far-distant State, or in a foreign country, the wise dairy farmer markets such products through high-producing dairy cows.

In selling feeds to dairy cows the farmer has a wide choice of markets, bad, good, and very good. Few men discriminate closely enough between these markets. If a wheat buyer offers a cent or two a bushel more than other buyers he gets our wheat; if a wool buyer offers half a cent a pound more for our wool we sell our wool to him; but if one cow returns $3 from a dollar's worth of feed and another only $2, we scarcely notice it. Here is a difference of a dollar every time each of these two cows eats a dollar's worth of feed; and, frequently, within a year this difference is enough to buy a hundred dollar Vic.

Skinkies have five full meals a day

Rock-Hewn Roadway of Capri.

(Prepared by the National Geographic Society, Washington, D. C.)

Capri, once the beautiful island pleasure home of Roman emperors, lies like an hour-glass on its side in the blue waters of the Bay of Naples. The glamor of its old associations still persists, but its appeal to the many tourists who now swarm to its shores is the same, no doubt, as that which drew great Romans to it — its delightful climate, neither stimulating nor enervating, and its wonderful scenery of land and sea and sky.

Capri itself is overgrown with strange interest and beauty — rugged, terraced hills, the blue sea nestled about its base, the white cliffs, innumerable sunsets; and among all of nature's beauties the scattered works of man from the ruins of ancient marble palaces to modern villas.

Only a few miles across the sea, Capri has Naples and the Neapolitan coast spread out in all their bewildering features. One writer has described Capri and the neighboring coast as more like a miniature than an accident of nature, while another has complained that the scenery is "too much like theater curtains come to life."

Nevertheless, every person who arrives at Naples under fair skies and beholds this littoral for the first time must be affected by its loveliness.

Capri is an esthetic wonder of the world. Its area is but six square miles; but surely nowhere else in the world are so much loveliness and so many interesting things packed in so little space. Artists have always flocked to Capri, each year bringing a fresh brood, confident in its ability to paint the unrepeatable cliffs and sea. Some of these lingered on, some to marry the handsome Capri girls, and Howell's Englishman who came to the island for three months and stayed for thirty years is not a unique case in this respect.

The fame of the Blue Grotto has made Capri a show-place, and for upward of a hundred years, day after day, the tide of seafaring tourists has flowed and ebbed. In spite of these daily caravans, however, in spite of the Anacapri road, the Punicular road, the Strada Krupp, much tasteless villa-building, and before the war the vast hordes of Germans, Capri is still essentially unspoiled.

It is true that the Capri women gave up wearing their costume thirty years ago; that the old Greek forms have dropped out of the island speech; that the old days have gone forever; but, despite this, there has been a gain in convenience and comfort of living for both Capri and foreigners, even at a loss of picturesque quality, and the comforting fact remains that Capri's beauty is rugged and permanent, not to be destroyed by man.

Acquired by Augustus.

Capri was the first point in Campania where the Greeks obtained a foothold, and Augustus possibly did a far-sighted thing by securing it for the empire in B. C. 29, thus preventing its seizure by enemies or by pirates. There was certainly the matter of pirates to be considered. The island has always been a pest of the Mediterranean. At the time of Pompey's celebrated campaign against the Mediterranean pirates, 67 B. C., they were well organized and entrenched; they had naval stations and beacon towers in various places. Centuries later the English actually did seize Capri, in 1800, and called it the "Little Gibraltar."

They might have held it, perhaps, to this day but for the ill luck and incompetence of Col. Hudson Lowe, later Napoleon's jailer at St. Helena.

The ruin of the Capri Pharos, the ancient lighthouse, so close to the largest of the ruined palaces on Capri, is a paramount point in the archaeology of the island. The selection of Capri by Augustus was most likely biased to a considerable degree by the fact that it was ideally situated for the Pharos. This was one of the most important lighthouses of antiquity.

The existing lower portion of the Capri structure is a mass of burned Roman brick, 40 feet square and 50 feet high, sufficiently conspicuous to show in photographs taken from Monte Solaro; at the other end of the island, two miles away. Its original appearance is entirely problematical. It may have had two or three stories. The tower at Boulogne had several stories and was 200 feet high. The Capri tower was not any higher than this, and in all probability not so high, as the elevation of the headland is about 1,000 feet above the sea. It is one of the most valuable and interesting ruins on the entire island.

May Have Had Wireless System.

It takes no great stretch of the imagination to believe that Capri was a signal station — an imperial wireless station of ancient Rome. We know that the ancients signaled in various ways and over long distances. They signaled by beacon fires, by beacon smoke, by pigeons, by flags, and by shouting from one sentinel to another.

Possibly the Publica Acta (Senate Journal) and the Diurna Acta (authorized news) were sent to Capri by signal instead of by messenger. We can conceive that such a system, organized most likely under Augustus, must have operated very smoothly after some years of experience and practice.

The mirror system would cost no money to operate, be easy to use, and by it long signals could be sent. Under the practical rule of the Romans, beacon signaling was doubtless somewhat advanced and by it long signals could be sent, perhaps by making the beacon flare up by adding periodically small quantities of oil.

This is a mere surmise, without basis other than the general advanced character of Roman civilization, which lacked little we have today. The Romans were not artistic, but they were wonderful mechanics, hydraulic engineers, sanitary engineers and great builders of all kinds of structures and highways. They had water pumps. They had perfected shorthand writing. The old writers do not tell us very much of Roman culture. None of them mentions a certain famous surgical instrument found at Pompeii, but it is there just the same.

The distance in an air line between Rome and Capri is 130 miles. Too long for direct signaling; but if we look along the coast of the Tyrrhenian sea we find numerous mountains affording points where the signals could be relayed. The frequency of the relaying would depend on the conditions. The highest point on Capri is Monte Solaro, 1,980 feet. Signals were probably not sent from here, but from the eastern headland. The Pharos was about 1,000 feet above sea level. A line drawn from the Pharos to Monte Circeo, on the Campanian coast, just grazes the island of Ischia; but the line of sight would be well above the island, as the summit of Circeo is 1,775 feet.

Favorite Home of Emperors.

The fact that Augustus and Tiberius made Capri their special retreat gives it a deep and lasting significance. The island was the favorite home of them and their families for nearly seventy years. They are the two greatest executives in history ruling consecutively — both clear-headed, hard-working administrators, whose labors established the supremacy of the Roman empire and brought about a wonderful period of peace unequalled in history, before or since. They both lived long, full lives and died natural deaths in an age when murder or enforced suicide or violent death of some sort was the almost invariable end of greatness.

After these towering personalities, Capri drops out of history and for some reason does not seem to have been patronized further by the imperial family.

But though Capri was never revisited by the emperors, the Pharos still guided the precious grain fleets through the channel between the island and the mainland for many centuries.

ROBBIE RACCOON

"I have been spending the winter in sleeping and resting," said Robbie Raccoon, and Ralph Raccoon said: "So have I."

"You see," said Robbie, "when we live up North and winters are cold it is too much for us to be out all the time. Down in more southern climates the raccoons never bother to sleep and rest but keep busy all winter long rushing here and there and everywhere."

"How I do love to be about though, now that it is getting a bit warmer. I have been having a nice walk along the brooks and rivers nearby. I found some goodies inside shells, too! I had a regular feast and so did some of my relatives."

"Good," said Ralph Raccoon. "I have been feasting a bit, too, this year."

"They say that we're very curious and inquisitive, and I believe it is true. I never see anything," continued Robbie, "that I don't want to know what it is."

"Especially I like to know about things which shine brightly. Some of my family have been caught that way. But I am very careful."

"How I do enjoy eating!"

"So do I," said Ralph. "Let's talk about food for a bit."

"All right," said Robbie. "I couldn't talk about it so cheerfully were it not for the fact that I have just eaten well and so am not hungry."

"I like anything to eat. I enjoy fresh-water clams. Frogs and turtles and eggs, I like. Nuts and fruit and vegetables I can also eat."

"Green corn, I especially like. I will even venture near farmhouses so as to get the corn that is growing nearby."

"I run great risks for green corn," said Robbie. "So do I," said Ralph.

"I do most of my marketing at night," said Robbie.

"Yes," I like the night time best," said Ralph. "In fact I like the night time better than the daytime anyway, though I am not wholly a night creature as the owl is."

"The same is true of me," said Robbie.

"Well, to continue my talk on food," he said, "I always like to wash my food and have it nice and clean. And "I like to make it soft and mushy, too. I have been brought up by my mother to do this."

"Just as I have been," said Ralph. "We're said to be very intelligent," said Robbie, "and I do believe we're bright."

"I think it is sensible of us to come back to the same hollow trees where we make our dens and to do this until we're grown-up gentlemen and lady raccoons."

"We wait until we're really grown-up, too. We don't consider we're grown-up when we're only a few months old. We have to be a few years old to consider ourselves grown-up."

"Our dear mothers say they like to bring up about four or six little raccoons a year. They say they can do this and train them well."

"I suppose every one knows what we look like," said Ralph, "with our bushy tails and our hind feet which are flat on the ground like a bear's."

"Of course they aren't flat on the ground unless we are walking on the ground. That is understood, of course."

"Of course," said Robbie.

"And I suppose every one knows that our tracks look very much like the tracks of a small child. I suppose they know that, too."

"I don't imagine they do," said Robbie, "as I've heard of people who have said:

"Some child has been walking along here, and they have pointed to the tracks of one of our family."

"Well," said Ralph, "it may have been a child, but a raccoon child and not a little boy or a little girl. But what say you to another meal now? I've got my spring appetite."

"So have I," agreed Robbie.

He had been in school but a short time and was learning to spell. He knew only about a dozen words, but he knew those well. There was a title shown upon the screen that contained the word "worse."

ONE of the first acts of William J. Flynn after taking charge of the New York office of the United States secret service was to order the arrest of two Italians, Vincenzo Lupo and Giuseppe Morello, on charges of manufacturing and passing counterfeit money. But the Sicilians, anticipating such a move, had taken care that their trails were well covered, and at the trial they produced a flock of witnesses who swore to alibis which effectually prevented a conviction.

As Morello and his companion passed out of the courtroom, after the case against them had been dismissed, Lupo remarked in a voice loud enough for Flynn to overhear: "Those pigs of American detectives haven't the brains to get the evidence they need. They'll never land us."

The man who later became the head of the secret service said nothing at the time.

It was three years before Flynn again came into contact with the two Italians, and again the federal forces had to be content with the losing end of the argument.

This time the case was the famous one of the "Morristown Five" — five dollar bills printed in precise imitation of the currency issued by the National Bank of Morristown, N. J. Flynn's men found that the trail led directly into "Little Italy" in New York, right up to the door of a grocery store owned by the duo — Giuseppe de Stano. But there, apparently, it disappeared into thin air.

Flynn investigated the matter very carefully from the outside, but he could discover nothing that he Primo was importing a much larger quantity of olive oil than his business appeared to warrant, in amount of the duty.

olive oil is usually imported in barrels and then canned or bottled on this side — the empty cans being shipped from Italy ready for use.

Feeling certain that there must be some connection between the olive oil and the mysterious counterfeiters, Flynn first insisted several of the barrels consigned to the Primos. But these were filled to the brim with oil of the previous quality mentioned in the hills of hiding. Then, merely to make certain that he had not neglected any possible angle of the case, the secret service man placed each one of the boxes of "empty cans." Instantly the mystery was solved. The cans contained roll upon roll of the "Morristown Fives," manufactured in Italy.

In the roundup which followed this discovery, Lupo and Morello were gathered in by the government agents and charged with passing counterfeit money. At once a moral standard, that the two Sicilians had had a hand in the plot — in fact, Flynn suspected that they were the ring-leaders — but none of the others would implicate them, even to save themselves. De Primo and his associates went to the penitentiary, but Lupo and Morello walked out of the courtroom still swearing at the "brainless American detectives."

During the years that followed, counterfeiting operations and Black Hand murders, extortion and blackmail of all kinds were almost traced to Lupo and Morello — almost. Apparently they worked as far west as Chicago and south to New Orleans, but every time the police or the government agents started to close in on them, the pair slipped out through some legal loophole prepared in advance.

It was nine years after the original Lupo-Morello case that Flynn got wind of the fact that the Italian colony in New York was planning a big counterfeiting coup. The only thing lacking, according to the information which reached government headquarters, was a printer.

A few days later, a young Italian named "Conita," who claimed to be a printing expert who had been forced to leave Italy on account of participation in a number of Mafia outrages, applied to Lupo for a position. The result was a put through a grilling cross-examination, but Flynn had seen to it that he was supplied with the proper answers to all the questions, and it wasn't long before the secret service had an operative placed in the very heart of the counterfeit plot.

Conita reported that the gang was operating from a small farm near Highland, N. Y., and that thousands of dollars in spurious currency was ready to be released.

"But Lupo," he added, "is preparing to take a trip to Italy and won't be back until the spring."

"Very well," replied Flynn, "we can wait. Just lay low until he returns. Then we'll nail the whole bunch."

It was early in the following year — ten years after the first arrest and before the trial which followed, physicians and other witnesses swore to alibis which had been previously prepared. But the government, aided by Conita's first-hand evidence and the testimony of the men who had been trailing the Italians, proved every point in its case, though it took the evidence of 300 people to do it.

As a result, Lupo and Morello went to the federal prison in Atlanta for 25 years, and Flynn was well satisfied with the 150 per cent interest upon his original investment of ten years' work.

Iron is Man's Product.

There is practically no iron in the world except what man has made. Gold, diamonds, other metals and jewels, we find in the earth in nuggets or crystals, but the only iron we find in such form in nature are meteorites, and, though we don't know where they come from, to what sun or planet they belong, we would not visit them if we could, for where iron does not rust animal and plant life cannot live. There is no oxygen in the vast spaces between the stars —

Man's product.

LIGHT-SIX
$1750
f. o. b. Factory

Your satisfaction with a Sedan depends largely upon construction you'll never see. Since you can't see it, you want to be all the more certain what's there.

And the chances are you'll buy from the manufacturer in whom you have the greatest confidence.

Studebaker's reputation for fine coach work was established in your grandfather's time.

This LIGHT-SIX Sedan body is built complete in Studebaker plants and is as good as the chassis. It will last, without rattles or squeaks, as long as the chassis—and that's longer than the average life of many other cars. There's nothing flimsy about this body. It has a sturdy frame-work of selected ash, the best lumber for the purpose that can be bought.

Eight stout ash pillars, running from floor to roof, insure permanent strength and rigidity which means freedom from body rattles. The joints of the steel panels of the outer surface are perfectly welded. Doors are hung with great precision—open freely and close with a sound of finality. Windows open without binding, yet are so firmly set that they are rattle-proof.

And unless you choose a Sedan with the quietness and flexibility of the LIGHT-SIX motor you will be disappointed.

D. 1922, at the opening of the Court on that day, and that all persons interested in such lands or any part thereof, desiring to contest the lien claimed thereon by the State of Michigan, for such taxes, interest and charges, or any part thereof, shall appear in said court, and file with the clerk thereof their objections thereto on or before the first day of the term of this court above mentioned, and that in default thereof the same will be taken as confessed and a decree will be taken and entered as prayed for in said petition. And it is further ordered that in pursuance of said decree the lands described in said petition for which a decree of sale shall be made, will be sold for the total taxes, interest and charges thereon as determined by such decree, on the first Tuesday in May thereafter, beginning at 10 o'clock a. m. on said day, or on the day or days subsequent thereto as may be necessary to complete the sale of said lands and of each and every parcel thereof, at the office of the County Treasurer, or at such convenient place as shall be selected by him at the county seat of the County of Crawford, State of Michigan, and that the sale then and there made will be a public sale, and each parcel described in the decree shall be separately exposed for sale for the total taxes, interest and charges, and the sale shall be made to the person paying the full amount charged against such parcel, and accepting a conveyance of the smallest undivided fee simple interest therein; or, if no person will pay the taxes and charges and take a conveyance of less than the entire thereof, then the whole parcel shall be offered and sold. If any parcel of land cannot be sold for taxes, interest and charges, such parcel shall be passed over for this time being, and shall, on the succeeding day, or before the close of the sale, be reoffered, and if, on such second offering, or during such sale, the same cannot be sold for the amount aforesaid, the County Treasurer shall bid off the same in the name of the State.

STATE OF MICHIGAN

To the Circuit Court for the County of Crawford in Chancery:
The petition of ORAMEL B. FULLER, Auditor General of the State of Michigan, for and in behalf of said State, respectfully shows that the list of lands hereinafter set forth and marked "Schedule A," contains a description of lands in said County of Crawford upon which taxes were assessed for the year 1921, and which were returned as delinquent for nonpayment of taxes, and which taxes have not been paid; together with the total amount of such taxes, with interest computed thereon to the time fixed for sale, and collection fee and expenses, as provided by law, extended against each of said parcels of land.

Your petitioner further shows to the Court that said lands were returned to the Auditor General under the provisions of Act 200 of the Public Acts of 1920, as delinquent for nonpayment of said taxes for said years respectively; and that said taxes remain unpaid; except that lands included in said "Schedule A" for taxes of 1920 or prior years were returned to the Auditor General as delinquent for said taxes under the provisions of the general tax laws in force prior to the passage of Act 200 of the Public Acts of 1920, and which taxes remain unpaid.

Your petitioner further shows that in all cases where lands are included in "Schedule A" as aforesaid for taxes of 1920 or of any prior year, said lands have not been sold for said taxes or have been heretofore sold for said delinquent taxes and the sale or sales so made have been set aside by a court of competent jurisdiction, or have been canceled as provided by law.

Your petitioner further shows and avers that the taxes, interest, collection fee and expenses as set forth in said "Schedule A" are a valid lien on the several parcels of lands described in said schedule.

Your petitioner further shows that the said taxes on the said described lands have not been paid since the year 1921, and that they were returned as delinquent, and the said taxes not having been paid, and the same being now due and remaining unpaid as above set forth, your petitioner prays a decree, in favor of the State of Michigan, against each parcel of said lands, for the payment of the several amounts of taxes, interest, collection fee and expenses, as computed and extended in said "Schedule A" against the several parcels of land contained therein; and in default of payment of the said several sums computed and extended against said lands, that each of said parcels of land may be sold for the amounts due thereon, as provided by law, to pay the lien aforesaid.

And your petitioner will ever pray, etc.

Dated February 7th, 1922.
ORAMEL B. FULLER,
Auditor General of the State of Michigan,
for and in behalf of said State.

A COMMUNICATION.

Frederic, Michigan.
March 1, 1922.

Dear Editor:

I just received my "Avalanche" and noted with regret that the privilege of obtaining the registered Holstein bull owned by the Michigan Central Railroad company has been lost to Crawford county farmers. But when Mr. Bailey states that he was unable to place this bull in our own County he made a slight mistake.

I called on Mr. Bailey and tried to obtain custody of the animal, but as there are already two registered bulls in the northern part of the County, he wanted to place this one in the southern part. Being unable to do so, he allowed the opportunity to pass to Otsego county rather than allow three pure-bred animals in the northern part of Crawford. Fine business!

Sincerely,
Arthur Howse.

The above letter was referred to Mr. Bailey for explanation and he states that it is true every word of it. He says that Mr. Howse has given him reasons very nicely in the second paragraph of his letter and considers that it needs no further comment from him.

It is understood that the Michigan Central Railroad company is loaning a number of these pure-bred sires in order to assist dairymen to improve their stock. Should Mr. Howse have received one of these sires, the revenue received for service would have, of course, gone into his pockets. This would be proper no doubt, but the question arises, would it be fair competition to farmers who already have secured or have invested their money into such pure-bred stock, when they are within serving distance of the community reached by Mr. Howse. It is the big idea of the M. C. officials to do all the good that it is possible to do, but to avoid duplications as far as possible.

It appears that the farmers of Crawford County have been a little quicker to get into the bandwagon for better dairy cattle, than have some of the farmers in some other parts of the County, and already have the two pure-bred sires in their community. There is no doubt but that Mr. Howse is correct in everything he says in his letter, but the question is, was Mr. Bailey right in his attitude in the matter. We shall not attempt to give our views in the matter, but instead prefer to leave it to the level to take. Children take it willingly.

STUDEBAKER CARS SHOW RECORD SALES INCREASE IN CALIFORNIA DURING 1921.

6,240 Studebakers Sold Last Year as Compared with 4,499 in 1920, an Increase of 83 Per Cent.

The part played by the State of California in making 1921 a Studebaker year is shown in detailed figures of car sales just received here by Harry E. Simpson, the Studebaker dealer.

The report, issued by Motor Registration News of California shows that 8,240 Studebakers were sold in that state last year as compared with 1,128 by the next largest exclusive manufacturer of sixes. In fact, among all makes, Studebaker sales were the largest with the exception of the two lowest-priced makes of four-cylinder cars.

Equally noteworthy is the fact that Studebaker sales showed the highest per cent of increase over 1920 of any make, a gain, to be exact, of 83 per cent. Sales of 8,240 Studebakers in 1921 compared with 4,499 in the previous year.

"In 1920 sales of Studebaker cars were 4 per cent of the total number of cars sold in California, whereas in 1921 they were 8 per cent," said Mr. Simpson. "Eliminating Ford and Chevrolet, Studebaker sold 163 per cent of the total number of new cars registered in California in 1921."

Jack Dempsey is contemplating a trip to Europe. He can safely go now, since the armistice has been signed.

THE PNEUMONIA MONTH.

March is typical pneumonia month and usually gives a high rate of mortality for the disease. After a long and hard winter, the system loses much of its resistance and people grow careless. When every cold, no matter how slight, is given prompt and intelligent attention, there is no danger of pneumonia. It should be borne in mind that pneumonia is a germ disease and breeds in the throat. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is an expectorant and cleans the lungs, but the question is, is it correct in everything he says in his letter, but the question is, was Mr. Bailey right in his attitude in the matter. We shall not attempt to give our views in the matter, but instead prefer to leave it to the level to take. Children take it willingly.

Some changes have been made in the Lenten services that are being held at St. Mary's church this season of Lent. The evening service that was to be held on Tuesday evening will be held on Wednesday as in former years, thus services will be held on Wednesday, Sunday and Friday evenings. The weekly morning mass has been changed from Wednesday to Thursday morning. There will be no services morning or evening next Sunday as Fr. Busler will go to Roscommon to hold services.

Who says we are not fast approaching normalcy? On Michigan Avenue, Detroit, you can get a hair cut for 25c. At the drug stores in Grand Rapids you can buy an ice cream soda for a dime. In Muskegon 25c will let you carry away three pairs of socks. At the McKinnon House in Cadillac you can get a good cup of coffee and by laying down another nickel you can get a plate of bread and butter. The conductors on the street cars in Port Huron, Benton Harbor and St. Joe collect but 5 cents to ride anywhere on the lines. It is possible to get a good shine in Grand Rapids for a nickel. Now come on, some of you growers, and confess—that better times are coming.—Michigan Tradesman.

AN EXPLOSION OF PEDIGREE TRUTH.

Miss Walton began an examination of the pupils in the grades Tuesday. All the pupils in the first eight grades will be examined for defects. The Junior class will have charge of the program Friday, March 10. Owing to the fact that they were not notified of this until late they will not be able to put on a long program. If you want to know who do not work just come up to the school house at the noon hour, and notice the number of early ones.

Grayling high school boys and girls were defeated at West Branch Friday, but they promise to redeem themselves here. Our boys go to Tawas and Oscoda Wednesday and Thursday of this week.

A pair of glasses have been found. The owner may have the same if he calls for them.

The school is a community for young folks. It is for the person who plays hard and plays fair. In order to have this organization a thing of success we must have cooperation. The foundation for true Americanism lies right in your school. It's up to you to make your school or break it.

There is to be a new class in Algebra I, for those who failed last semester. This will be under Supt. B. E. Smith.

Heard in a grade class—Teacher: "What is a truck farm?" Pupil: "It is a place where you raise your stuff in trucks."

Angus McPhee: "Father, is water works all one word, or is it spelled with a hyphen?"

A Student's Soliloquy: To copy, or not to copy; that is the question; Whether it is safer to go with scarce half Or to take heart against a lot of troubles, And by just writing, get them. To snitch: To fish: Why not? And by such stunts to say we end The trouble, and get A on all the

'Tis a consolation, and a swell one, I'll be switched To write; to take to class, perchance recite: Aye, there's the rub; For who would work

The problems out at home, get factors, answers, Signs so changeable; all this takes time.

There's the respect that makes the course detestable. For who would bear the continual change of signs,

The teacher's harangue, the plannings, the humiliations of reporting half a lesson.

The trials of factoring, and the jests That one who slights his work oft-times takes.

When in might copy all his given work, And do that easily? Who would problems solve, To rack their brain till the midnight hour.

But for the dread of something in the class—The teacher's pointed questions from whose spell No copy cat is safe, gums up the works And makes us rather take the threat Than copy seven that we know not of?

Thus danger doth keep honor in us all And thus the early plan for A's and B's, Is now a single hope we may skin through,

And all my plans for sticking on the team Go glimmering. Good night, there's the song.

Catarhal Deafness Cannot Be Cured by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure catarrhal deafness, and that is by a constitutional remedy. Catarrhal Deafness is caused by an inflammation of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a running sound or ringing in the ears, and when it is fully closed, Deafness is the result. Unless the inflammation is removed, and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever. Many cases of deafness are caused by catarrh. Write if an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces of the Eustachian Tube exists, and the blood on the mucous surface of the system.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Catarrhal Deafness that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Medicine. Circulars free. All Druggists, etc.

Biliousness

WHEN you have a bilious attack your liver fails to perform its functions. You become constipated. The food you eat ferments in your stomach instead of digesting. This inflames the stomach and causes nausea, vomiting and a terrible headache. Take Chamberlain's Tablets. They will tone up your liver, clean out your stomach and you will soon be as well as ever. There is nothing better.
